The Peace to B&B

Visiting

The best way to see our beautiful and diverse state is to travel through the region staying at one of our member inns, ranging from rustic cabins and woodsy lodges to elegant mansions and comfortable farms.

Before you make a reservation, we have a few tips to make your stay a pleasant one:

Directory listings: Our directory has only a bit of information about each of our member B&Bs – you will find expanded information on our website, www.wvbnbs.com, or by phoning the Inn. Please be sure to ask questions about your own particular concerns, like dietary restrictions, access issues like stairs, pets, smoking, check-in and check-out times, credit card and cancellation policies. You'll find our innkeepers ready to assist you in any way possible.

Reservations: We recommend that you make reservations in advance for all of our member inns. Please be sure you understand payment and cancellation policies at the time of booking. Our member B&Bs are individually-owned and do not over-book, so cancellations greatly affect us.

Inspected and Approved: All members of the Mountainstate Association of B&Bs are subject to inspection; hospitality, cleanliness and safety are of great importance to us.

For more information on what to expect at our member B&Bs, please visit our website in the About MABB section for 'The B&B Experience'.

About MABB

(Mountainstate Association of B&Bs)

in West Virginia

The Mountainstate Association of Bed & Breakfasts was formed in 1991 to insure quality facilities for our guests in Wild and Wonderful West Virginia and as a legislative and marketing organization of volunteers to promote the bed and breakfast industry in our state.

By setting standards with regular inspections, MABB assures guests that they will have the best experiences when they visit our members. Through pro-active legislation, MABB has helped set health and safety guidelines required of all bed and breakfasts in West Virginia. Due to the dedication of our voluntary membership, MABB continues to grow its membership and the service it provides to both members and the traveling public. B&B owners and innkeepers can find a network of like-minded hospitality professionals and support through networking, advocacy, and education by joining MABB.

Have you thought about becoming an innkeeper?

MABB offers conferences and aspiring innkeeper seminars throughout the year to provide training from knowledgeable professionals in the hospitality industry at a reduced member rate.

MABB benefits, inspection guidelines, and a printable membership application can be found on our website, www.wvbnbs.com, in the About MABB section, 'Why and How to Join MABB'. You can also call any one of our member inns to find out more about MABB and how you may benefit from joining today.
